INSTRUCTOR QUALITY— Your Number One Concern Is Our Number One Priority

We know that instructor quality is the number one determinant in your decision to employ adjunct instructors. Ever mindful of this fact, TTA maintains a stringent qualification process to ensure that our Instructors are of the highest quality. Our initial qualification process begins with a thorough verification of all resumé information, degrees, and certifications declared. The candidate and references are interviewed and previous student evaluations are assessed. But our quality assurance doesn't stop there. Once an instructor is fully vetted, TTA performs in-service quality checks with the client and the instructor as well as reviewing all post-class student evaluations. By strictly adhering to these rigorous quality assurance measures, we are able to offer our clients a 100% satisfaction guarantee on TTA performance.

The Adult Learning Difference

Adult learners differ from young adults in their styles, motivational behaviors, and expectations. TTA instructors have spent the majority of their time in this learning environment, and are proficient in tailoring classes to meet the needs of this audience. Adult learners are most interested in acquiring knowledge that has immediate relevance to their job or personal life. TTA trainers are able to customize material to this group, and incorporate exercises and simulations using real-world scenarios to engage and motivate students, thereby enhancing their learning experience.
